Rape victim's family bent on pursuing case

By Thomas H. Davis and Robert J. Anderson

For the purpose of this study, the authors used a sample of 1000 randomly selected respondents from the 2000 Census of the United States. The respondents were selected from the 2000 Census of the United States, which was conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau. The respondents were selected from the 2000 Census of the United States, which was conducted by the U.S. Census Bureau.

The first step in the process is to identify the problem. This involves gathering information about the situation and the people involved. Once the problem is identified, the next step is to develop a plan of action. This plan should outline the steps that need to be taken to resolve the problem. Finally, the plan should be implemented and the results monitored.

Background:
Tuberculosis (Tb) elimination requires improving efforts, and this was necessary in order to prevent tuberculosis resurgence in the United States.

These findings have important implications for the design of future research. First, the results suggest that the use of a single measure of social support may be insufficient to capture the complexity of the construct. Second, the findings indicate that the relationship between social support and health outcomes may be more complex than previously thought, with different types of support having different effects. Finally, the results suggest that the use of a single measure of health outcomes may be insufficient to capture the complexity of the construct.

There are many reasons why the study is relevant to the current debate. First, it is one of the few studies that have examined the impact of the 1996 law on the use of the death penalty. Second, it is one of the few studies that have examined the impact of the 1996 law on the use of the death penalty in the United States. Third, it is one of the few studies that have examined the impact of the 1996 law on the use of the death penalty in the United States.

The 1976 election was a great success for the party, as it won 50% of the vote and 50% of the seats.

The first observational study was an exploratory, pilot study that the authors conducted. The authors used the following questions to guide their study:

- 1. How many people are currently using the Internet?
- 2. How many people are currently using the Internet to access health information?
- 3. How many people are currently using the Internet to access health information to make a decision about their health?

The 1981 census had shown a trend towards a younger and more mobile population. The 1986 census showed that the population was becoming older and more mobile.

Article

The United States has been hit by a series of terrorist attacks in the past few years. The most recent and deadliest was the September 11 attacks, which resulted in the deaths of nearly 3,000 people. The attacks have led to a new era of terrorism, one that is more global and more sophisticated than ever before. The challenge for the United States is to find a way to protect itself from these attacks without sacrificing its civil liberties.

The United States has a long history of being a target of terrorism. From the Boston Tea Party to the September 11 attacks, the country has been hit by a series of terrorist attacks. The attacks have led to a new era of terrorism, one that is more global and more sophisticated than ever before. The challenge for the United States is to find a way to protect itself from these attacks without sacrificing its civil liberties.

Martha Stewart is inhuman

THE EDITOR—
 I have been reading your paper for many years and I have always enjoyed it. I have always been a fan of the "Letters" section and I have always enjoyed reading the letters of our readers. I have always been a fan of the "Letters" section and I have always enjoyed reading the letters of our readers.

Martha Stewart is inhuman. She is a cold, calculating, and ruthless woman who has no regard for the feelings of others. She is a woman who has no conscience and who is willing to do anything to get what she wants. She is a woman who has no empathy and who is willing to hurt others to achieve her goals.

As a result of her actions, she has caused many people to suffer and has destroyed many lives.

Tallest towers, highest pools

NOT ONLY IS THE KUOK/SHANGRI-LA Group building the tallest condominiums in the country, the hotel/property empire is also furnishing the penthouse units their very own private pools.

To be launched on Wednesday, the 60-story twin-tower The St. Francis will be built on what is now the open car park and the police outpost adjoining the Shangri-La Plaza mall.

According to the grapevine, the two upper penthouse units on each of the twin towers measure 450 and 500 square meters each, large enough to each accommodate a 3.5m-by-10m lap pool. These private pools are in addition to the 8m-by-10m common pool at the converted 5th floor of the twin towers, which will also house the residents' gym and function rooms.

At an average price of P75,000/sq.m. (VAT inclusive), the bigger penthouse unit will cost a cool P39.5 million. The still-to-be-built condos at Rockwell, in comparison, cost around P80,000/sq.m. while The Fort's fast-rising Serenata is hitting around P90,000/sq.m.

The St. Francis will have 1,200 units in all, a veritable mid-city of studios and one-two-bedroom apartments that mall rats will be happy to note will be connected, Hong Kong-like by elevated and, yet, free, air-conditioned walkways not only to the Shangri-La mall but to the MRT station and the Shangri-La hotel as well.

The studios will range from 38 to 45 sq.m. floor areas, as against the typical 25-28 configurations. The average local luxury hotel room, incidentally, ranges from 28 sq.m. for Dubai to 35-40 sq.m. for Makati Shangri-La.

At 38 sq.m., a St. Francis studio will cost a little over P3 million.

COCKTALES

Victor C. Agustin

One final small print: The Kuok/Shangri-La Group has committed to deliver the twin towers to unit owners by October 2008, three years from now.

Baby, it's cold inside

THE NEW St. Francis Square in Ortigas (no relation to The St. Francis cousin of the Kuok-Shangri-La Group) must be the coldest mall in town.

Saigonville, especially in the basement malls, not only have doctored pullovers, but have also taken to wearing caps and hoods to fight the chill being continuously blasted by the island-new air-conditioning system.

To build the mall, what developer Luke Morris had was to integrate the landmark Mc Donald's outlet in the intersection and make it appear as part of the new building.

Right next to the mall are the unfinished twin condo-buildings with distinctive pyramidal steel towers, also another Morris project, which should be relaunched soon now that the developer has climbed out of the 1997 debt hole.

chief investment officer of DVC Investment Management.

Joseph Rosas, president of Eagle Squidex Inc., agreed that the market might also draw fresh inspiration from good corporate earnings this week.

"I expect it to be bullish also because of a seasonal run-up to a Santa Claus rally," Rosas said, referring to the buying spree normally seen in the stock market toward the end of the year.

Set to release their third-quarter earnings this week are telecom giants Philippine Long Distance Telephone Co., Globe Telecom, Ayala Corp. and its property arm Ayala Land, and food and beverage conglomerate San Miguel Corp.

Garcia said the market's support was pegged at 1,980 and its resistance level at 2,060. Ednaheh L. Sanchez

Filinvest group to develop P2-B resort complex in Mactan

By Business Journal

MANILA, Philippines — A group of investors led by the Filinvest group has secured a 200-hectare site in Mactan, Cebu, for a P2-billion resort complex.

The group, which includes the Filinvest group, the Philippine American Bank and the Philippine American Insurance Company, has secured the site from the Mactan City government.

The site is located in the Mactan Island, which is part of the Mactan City. The site is currently being used for agricultural purposes.

The group plans to develop the site into a resort complex, which will include a hotel, a casino, a shopping mall, and a convention center.

ASTRANGE GALLERY OF MODERN art exhibits has managed to do what no other "high-end" gallery has managed to do: display a collection of art that is both new and old, and that is both new and old.

The gallery is the only one in the world to display the work of a single artist in a single room.

Carlo Mazzoni, the artist who has been the driving force behind the gallery, has been the driving force behind the gallery for the last 10 years. He has been the driving force behind the gallery for the last 10 years.
